The Irish Guard

by Brian Witt

There was a wedding in England on April, 29, 2011. The bride, Kate Middleton, wore a white, traditionally styled wedding gown. The groom, William Wales, wore the uniform of the Irish Guards, with the shamrock and the sash of St. Patrick's blue. The choice of uniform for the heir to the throne amazed some, as he is an officer in the Royal Air Force.

However, William was appointed the Colonel of the Irish Guard on February 11, 2011. Along with the Royal Irish Regiment, it is one of two Irish regiments remaining in the British Army. The Irish Guards recruit in Northern Ireland and the Irish neighborhoods of major British cities, usually the northern English cities of Liverpool and Manchester, and Glasgow in Scotland.

The Irish Guards regiment was formed on April 1, 1900, by order of Queen Victoria to commemorate the Irish people who fought in the Second Boer War for the British Empire. (Ironically, many members of the Irish Republican Brotherhood fought on the side of the Boers.) During the First World War, the Irish Guards were deployed to France and they remained on the Western Front for the duration of the war. In 1917, they participated in the Third Battle of Ypres and Cambrai. They fought up to the final days of the war. During the entire war, the Irish Guards lost over 2,300 officers and men, including John Kipling, son of Rudyard Kipling. The regiment won 406 medals including four Victoria Crosses. Among those who served in its ranks was Liam O'Flaherty, the Irish novelist.

Historically, Irish Guards officers were often drawn from British public schools, particularly those with a Roman Catholic affiliation, such as Ampleforth College, Downside School and Stonyhurst College, although this practice has lessened recently. There are a number of Irish citizens in the ranks of the Irish Guard. Restrictions in the Republic of Ireland's Defence Act make it illegal to "induce, procure or persuade enlistment of any citizen of the Republic of Ireland into the military of another state.” However, voluntary enlistment is allowed.

This history of Irish units in the British army goes back to the 1600s, with the founding of the Royal Irish Regiment. After the end of the Irish rebellion, in 1922, a number of Irish units were disbanded. These included the Connaught Rangers; Leinster Regiment; Royal Dublin Fusiliers; Royal Irish Regiment; Royal Munster Fusiliers; and the South Irish Horse. (Interestingly, many of the Royal Munster soldiers went on to join to the IRA in the Civil War against the Free Staters.)

The regiment was almost discontinued in 1922, along with the other Irish units, as a cost cutting move by Winston Churchill. The loss of the other Irish units in the army led to a public outcry, and he backed down. During the Second World War, battalions of the regiment fought in Norway, France, North Africa and Italy and following D-Day in France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Germany. The regiment lost over 700 men killed and was awarded 252 medals including two Victoria Crosses.

Since 1945, the regiment served in many areas of conflict as well as being part of the British Army of the Rhine in Germany. They also served as the garrison of Hong Kong in the 1970s. The RIG were not posted to Northern Ireland, for a number of reasons. But a bomb blast on a bus in 1982 at the Chelsea barracks killed 23 soldiers and wounded 16 more and two passers-by were also killed. More recently, the Irish Guards were involved in the Balkan conflict and the Iraq War and Afghanistan.

Like the other Guards regiments, the “Home Service Dress” of the Irish Guards is a scarlet tunic and bearskin. Buttons are worn in two rows of four, reflecting the regiment’s position as the fourth most senior Guards regiment, and the collar is adorned with a shamrock on either side. They also sport a blue plume on the right side of the bearskin.

The regiment takes its motto, “Quis Separabit”, or “Who shall separate us?” from the Order of St. Patrick. The Irish Guards are known affectionately throughout the Army as “the Micks.” And the Irish wolfhound is the only mascot allowed to lead a regiment when they “Troop the Colour.”

Fresh shamrock is presented to the members of the regiment, no matter where it is stationed, on St. Patrick’s Day. This task was first performed in 1901 by HM Queen Alexandra and later by HM Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother. Since the latter’s death, the presentation has been made by the Princess Royal. On the regiment’s 50th anniversary in 1950, King George VI made the presentation in person.

The Irish Guard wasn’t the only Irish aspect of the wedding. According to Irish Central, Shane Connolly from Northern Ireland was chosen as the couple’s florist. Connolly supplied the flowers for Prince Charles’ wedding to Camilla Parker-Bowles, for which he was awarded the Royal Warrant. This means that he is an official supplier of flowers to royal events. A member of the Irish Guard, David Rodgers, from Maghera, County Derry, was handpicked to play the pipes at the couple's reception in Buckingham Palace. The Derry man served with the Irish Guards in Bosnia, Kosovo and spent six months in Iraq in 2010.

And there was one more Irish side to the affair. William's mother, Princess Diana, was from the Irish House of Fermoy.

An overall grand Irish wedding it was.

Milwaukee President's Message

Greetings and Happy Fathers Day,

“Roll out those lazy hazy days of summer ?those days of soda and pretzels and beer, Dust off the sun and moon and sing a song of cheer.” ?

Time to move outside and soak up some rays and what better place to start than at the Shamrock Club's Annual Picnic being held at Sacred Heart Picnic Grounds at N. 49th and Wells on Saturday June 18 from Noon till 5 p.m. rain or shine. Dawn and Peter Fleming have promised “a grand time for all” with a slate of Irish music and dancing, games for both the kids and adults, raffle baskets and plenty of other surprises. So pack your lawn chair, sunscreen and your main course and a dish to pass. Beverages will be provided. And no Brewer game that day.

Also don't forget to support the Shamrock Club sporting teams, the Griffins of the Milwaukee Hurling Club and our sponsored team in the Wisconsin Soccer Association, the Milwaukee Celtic Soccer Club.

And the Shamrock Club Color Guard and Pipes and Drums start their summer parade and performance season.

Congratulations to our news members of the board elected at the May meeting: Pam Cannon as 1st Year Trustee, Glen Nowak as Sergeant at Arms and Brian Sneed as Parliamentarian. Mary Culver was elected to the position of Secretary. A large thank you to Veronica Ceszynski, Malkin Wallace and Tom McAleese who exit the board at this time but whose service and dedication to the Club has been invaluable for the past years.

As voted on at the May meeting we will be have the Installation of Officers Dinner on July 7. Please check elsewhere in Emerald Reflections for more information.

The Scholarship raffle was held at the May meeting and in was nice to see so many winners in attendance. Thanks again to Sandy Quinlan and the Quinlan clan.

Kris Pluskota has put out a plea for assistance in helping her with retail sales. As can be imagined, Kris' schedule does not always allow her to set up, sell and then tear down on many of the selling events. So please lend a hand and volunteer a few hours in supporting the Club's retail operation. We hate to lose this important revenue source. Kris stepped forward to run retail when nobody else would so please step forward for her and the Club.

A committee headed by Denis Donohoe is inventorying, cataloguing and archiving the club's history. This endeavor includes scanning of all past Emerald Reflections, gathering together past awards and trophies and preserving past photographs and other memorabilia. The committees' hope is to showcase the best of the best as a recruiting tool for membership at such events as Irish Fest, the Highland Games etc. using a portable booth and display case. If you have any suggestions please pass them along.

The committee is also planning on introducing new Club apparel as a way of getting our name out in the community.

How about giving someone a gift membership ?

As many of you are aware, the Irish Cultural and Heritage Center has launched a major capital campaign seeking funds to restore, preserve and improve the building. The Club has been approached to pledge $50,000 (over five years) for naming rights to the meeting space. At this time the board has begun discussing the proposal and at a future date the boards' recommendation will be presented to the membership.

See you at the next meeting ?

To Barry Stapleton and Jeff Ksisek

The Shamrock Club Singers went to a nursing home on St. Patrick's Day to sing some Irish songs for the residents. Barry Stapleton and Jeff Ksiazek, on very short notice, allowed me to stop in at the Irish Fest Center's Music Archives to pick up sheet music for a dozen Irish favorites. They made great suggestions and got me copies of the songs for our group. We want to give them a special recognition for their cheerful and professional help.

Easter Rising Mass

The 41st Annual Easter Rising Mass was well attended. Attendance was a bit lower this year than last. We had a head count of approximately 185 for the Mass. We made some changes to the Mass, including the addition of the second reading in Irish and English. I added a bit of the history of the Mass in the booklet. The addition of a cantor and a music minster made a difference. Thanks to Mary Jo Kaufmann and Diana Stroud for their work.

Joe Hughes and Derek Byrne do a great job in the intro and the history of why we show up to honor the Rising each year. Thanks also to Rory Modlinski for taking care of sound, and for sister Molly for assisting him.

Betty Mikush secured our Eucharistic ministers. The Color Guard did a great job with the piping and the colors. Prior to the Mass, Julie Smith, Kathy Donovan, and Dawn Fleming did a fantastic job in decorating the sacred space. Bob Towne and Josh Walton fell into the ushering job with their usual elan and competence. Marianne Mikush did the Mass booklet template, and Denis Donohoe printed the booklet.

Over $300 was collected during the Mass. It was donated to St. Rose of Lima parish.

Well, the Shamrock Club Griffins got their first win that day, over the Milwaukee Ale House.

Stop by any Sunday in June and cheer on the Griffins. We play at Brown Deer Park, picnic area #4.
